

Annual financial statements and tax declarations

Companies are required to present their business results particularly against borrowers on a regular basis. For this, an annual financial statement is one of the most important tools. It is the basis for several tax declarations and is also the business card of a company. In addition, corporations are required to transfer this information electronically to the Federal Gazette for publication, or in the case of micro-capital companies, for deposit. As tax consultants, the preparation of financial statements is one of the core tasks.

The following services are offered:
